FROM CRADLE to GRAVE

How the National Policy Affects all Classes of the Community.

A High Rate from Cradle to Grave—Interesting Story.

Peter Smith, an industrious hardworking rancher, not more than a dozen miles from the city, the other morning rose at 5 o'clock to attend to his daily cares. It being yet dark, he lit a match, taxed 25 per cent., and with it he lighted his lamp, taxed 30 per cent. (the oil in it taxed 77½ cents per gallon), and then he discovered that a button, taxed 25 per cent., was off; he therefore took a piece of twine, taxed 25 per cent., and with a shingle nail, taxed 30 per cent., made such repairs temporarily as enabled him to fasten his suspenders, taxed 30 per cent. He washed himself, blessing his stars that the water was untaxed, though the pump in the yard had paid 35 per cent., and the blasting powder used in excavating his new well was taxed 25 per cent., and the spades, drills, etc., had paid 35 per cent. He used common soap, taxed 1½ cents per pound, in preference to castile, taxed 2 cents, for he was an economical man, then he wiped his face and hands on a towel taxed 25 per cent. He had before put on his untaxed home-made shirt and trowsers, in preference to his Sunday clothes, taxed from 25 to 35 per cent. He looked in the little mirror taxed 30 per cent., and discovered that his beard had a week's growth on it and that he ought to shave to make himself tidy. He hunted up his razor, taxed 25 per cent., his brush, taxed 30 per cent., and stirred up his shaving soap, taxed 30 per cent. Having hastily shaved, he combed his plentiful hair with a comb taxed 25 per cent., and then glanced out through the window pane, taxed 30 per cent., to see what the weather was like. He discovered that it was now broad daylight, and thanking his stars that the

SUNLIGHT WAS STILL FREE OF DUTY

he put on his boots, the leather of which had been taxed 15 per cent. He noticed that they needed oil, taxed 20 per cent.; but glancing at the clock, taxed 35 per cent., in the sitting-room, he saw that he must hurry on and make the fire. As he went out of the bedroom he noticed that the carpet, taxed 25 per cent., and the bit of oilcloth, taxed 30 per cent., needed fastening at one or two places, with tacks which pay a duty of 20 per cent. Then he hastened to make the fire. Opening his stove, taxed 25 per cent., he lit the fire, put away the shovel and poker, taxed 25 per cent., and taking the broom, taxed 25 per cent., he swept the hearth. While the fire was burning briskly he lit his pipe, a bad fashion, but it was his only vice, and so he took his nine taxed 20 per cent. and filled it with tobacco taxed 20 cents per pound and 12½ per cent., or about 20 per cent in all, and enjoyed his smoke for a few minutes. While doing so he noticed that the stovepipe, taxed 17½ per cent. needed securing, and taking a piece of wire taxed 15 per cent., he made it fast. This done he took his pencil, taxed 25 per cent., and made some memoranda on paper taxed 20 per cent. Before he went to feed his stock he cut some wood with his buckaaw taxed 30 per cent., and split it with an axe taxed 30 per cent. He then went to the barn and discovered that a hinge, taxed 30 per cent., on the stable door needed repairs. He took the hayfork, taxed 35 per cent., and fed his cattle and horses, and after adjusting the horses' blankets taxed 40 per cent. and seeing that their ties, taxed 20 per cent., were all right, he remembered that the sorrel mare had lost a shoe, taxed 30 per cent., and that he must needs take her to the blacksmith to have another fastened on with nails, taxed 30 per cent.

HE BURIED HIMSELF AWHILE

with his barn shovel, taxed 35 per cent., took a glance into his storeroom where stood his mower, horse-rake, plows, harrows, hoes and other implements, all taxed 35 per cent., and then went into the house for breakfast. As he entered he noticed that a brick, taxed 20 per cent., had been loosened from the chimney and must be replaced. He also noticed that his well-built farm house needed repainting, and he meditated for a moment on what it would cost to do the job with paint ground and mixed, taxed 25 cents per pound. Would it be better to buy ready mixed paint? Paint taxed 35 per cent., and a small piece of toilet

NOTES AND COMMENTS.

Mr. Parnell denies that he is going to the continent. He says his physician is well satisfied with his progress.

The total export of petroleum and its products from the United States for the year 1886, was 579,673,341 gallons, against 568,086,619 gallons for 1885.

At a conference of the Scotch Liberal Association resolutions were adopted declaring in favor of reform of the land laws, in favor of local self-government, disestablishment of the church, the state control of the liquor traffic. They voted confidence in Gladstone.

Rev. Dr. Grant's straight-from-the shoulder hits at machine politics have created considerable squirming among the party heelers. Sir John's campaign sheet in this city emptied its slush bucket over him. The Grits behave more shrewdly. They pretend to believe that the doctor's strictures only apply to the other fellows.

The Dominion Government have been lavish in giving boodle to favorites, and to the people, increased debt, doubled taxes, crippled trade and a beggarly array of broken promises. What wonder that the people are rising in their might to turn out this extravagant, corrupt and hypocritical selfstyled Liberal-Conservative Government.

Mr. Chamberlain in an interview with delegates from the Scotch Crofters, offered, in the event of the Scotch members approving his taking the leadership of the party to induce a crofter bill in parliament. The Gladstonian Radicals are jealous of Chamberlain's interference, and oppose his assumption of the leadership of the Scotch Radicals. Mr. Morley declared in favor of Chamberlain, on the ground that his advocacy of the crofters case is a step towards the complete reunion of the Liberals.

In New Brunswick in 1885 there was imported and entered for consumption dutiable goods to the value of $4,265,345, and the duty paid thereon was $1,314,977.46 or at the rate of over $30 on the $100 worth. Now mark the contrast. In 1877 there was imported and entered for consumption dutiable goods of the value of $5,074,165, and the duty paid thereon was $1,091,018 or at the rate of a little over $21 per $100 worth. In a word, we pay $9 more to the government for the privilege of importing $100 worth of goods that we paid under the Liberal rule. These figures are from the official trade returns of 1877 and 1885.

While Ontario has stood faithfully by Sir John, his majority from this province being 10, Quebec has always been his stronghold, his followers from that province being in the ratio of nearly three to one of his opponents. In the late House the majority supporting the Government was nearly double the number of the supporters of the opposition, the figures being 139 to 72. The Riel bolt made a difference of say 10, which would count 20 on a division. Although the bolters may decline to support Sir John they may not be indisposed to support Sir Charles. Anyway it is plain that in converting the Government's majority into a minority the Reform party has no light contract on its hands.

The Halifax Chronicle thus refers to Sir Charles Tupper's re-entrance into political life. It is mentioned that he would not have re-entered politics if he had not believed that the government would be sustained. Why did he not remain in his luxurious abode in London? If was because he knew that with Mr. Blake in power he would be turned out and his office abolished! He might as well fight, hoping possibly to stem the tide. His recall shows that without his aid the Tory cause must go to wreck. He feared damaging revelations if the Liberal party obtained control of the department. For our part we are glad he is in the field, that he may share the fate of his colleagues. It will aid in the Liberal triumph of 22nd February.

NEW WESTMINSTER DISTRICT

There are still three candidates in the field for this constituency, namely, Messrs. Cushom, McGillivray and Trapp. The first named gentleman has been in the field for some months. He has made a canvass of the district and claims that his election, by a handsome majority, is assured. He is an old residenter of the province, well and favorably known to the majority of the electors, whose suffrage he is now seeking. Already The Times has expressed its views on the candidature of Mr. Chushom. We know of nothing new having transpired to swerve us from the opinions previously expressed, that, in our judgment, Mr. Chushom, in many respects was the best-fitted man for the position of those then claiming the seat. In his address to the electors Mr. Chushom, amongst other topics referred to, says:

My political platform is, in the first place, the interest of British Columbia, which I believe can be best served by my giving an IMPORTANT support to the present government, which has not in the past been unmindful of the interests of British Columbia.

Those who know that gentleman will admit that any promise or pledge made or given by him will be redeemed. We believe that whatever party may be in power that Mr. Chushom, in the best interests of this province, will give that government a fair and generous support, so long as its legislation is calculated to advance the material interests and prosperity of our province.

Mr T. J. Trapp has also issued a lengthy and comprehensive address to the electors. He refers to the improvement of the navigation of the Fraser river; the squatters' claims; a railway south of New Westminster to the boundary; the railway transportation grievance; the mails; the temperance and Chinese questions. Mr. Trapp in politics speculates himself an independent. He says:

I consider any member sent to Ottawa from this Province should be independent of any particular party, he should be free to act for the best interests of the country regardless of party. As an independent I shall endeavor to vote and act, if elected, first, in the interests of my constituents; secondly, in the interests of the province, and lastly, for the general good of the Dominion, pledging myself neither to Grit or Tory, but claiming the right as a free born British subject to use my vote and influence on the side where I consider your interests and the interests of the nation lie.

Mr. McGillivray so far as known to us has not yet issued an address. He was nominee of a convention, and will doubtless receive the support of those whose views were represented at that gathering.

ENGLAND, AYE READY.

A correspondent of the New York Sun, in discussing the probability of a rupture between Britain and the United States—a very unlikely event, however—says that undoubtedly the capital and all our coast ports would be at the mercy of the enemy in such an event; he continued, "but that isn't where England would strike out first. She would choose our weakest points—perhaps not the weakest, for all our points are equally defenceless, but the most accessible. The Canadian border is the part of the country that needs looking after in case of war, for one can see with half an eye where the first blow would be struck. The big cities on the lakes would first receive their attention, for there is nothing to prevent English gunboats from swarming through Lake Ontario and effecting complete disaster and ruin. According to the treaty of 1817 each country is allowed by one vessel on Lake Ontario, and we have only the harmless old Michigan in those waters. The British have none, but they have complete control of the navigation of the St. Lawrence, at least as far as Kingston, and they possess just 111 gunboats that can navigate it. The St. Lawrence and the Welland Canal afford ample opportunity for reaching the lakes. To be sure there are numerous rapids, so that to-day a vessel drawing twelve feet can pass through, and by the opening of navigation this will be increased to fourteen feet. Forty-eight hours after the declaration of war it would take possession of the entrance to the St. Lawrence and keep us away, while their light gunboats would swarm into the lakes; and, as I said, they have 111 that could get there. Don't you know that the British keep a number of these vessels in the vicinity of Bermuda to be handy in case of necessity? When the fisheries troubles first arose six of these vessels were ordered up to New Brunswick. The reason assigned was a needed change of climate for the squadron, but upon looking through the register I learned that five of those vessels were of the proper draught to navigate the St. Lawrence. We can't do anything to afford us protection without money. We might be able to get vessels to the lake by way of the Mississippi and Illinois rivers, if we had a canal of the requisite depth from La Salle to Chicago; or we might get them if the Erie canal should be made navigable. But there are always ifs in the way, and these the British would not have to contend with. Everything is in readiness to go right to work effectively."

The Toronto Mail in a late issue in discussing the debt question said: "The net public debt, after deducting everything that can be fairly classed as an asset, is put down by Conservatives at $190,000,000; whilst Mr. Blake states it at $220,000,000. Our own belief is that it is $225,000,000. The difficulty of determining the exact figure arises from the fact that we still cling to the antiquated fashion of being a year behind with the public accounts. Assuming, however, that the net debt is only $190,000,000, is it not time for us to seriously consider the situation?"

The Queensland expedition that went out to avenge the murder by the native last October in New Guinea has returned. The chief was caught and beheaded and the village in which he and his accomplices resided burned.

Dominion Elections.

To the Electors of Vancouver Island District for the House of Commons.

Gentlemen,—

I beg to announce myself as a candidate at the coming Dominion Election for the representation of your important district in the Parliament of Canada.

I again solicit your confidence as a firm supporter of the Liberal Conservative party, whose wise policy has raised the Dominion of Canada to her present exalted position.

I will hold public meetings wherever I find it possible to do so, of which due notice will be given and at which I will give an account of my stewardship during the four years that I have had the honor of representing you in the House of Commons.

I have the honor to be,

Gentlemen,

Yours truly,

D. W. GORDON.

Nanaimo, Jan. 17th, 1887. jan18-tw

To the Electors of the City of Victoria District.

Gentlemen:

I again offer myself as a candidate for your suffrages at the coming Election, as a Conservative, but not as a slave to any party. My platform will be: (1) The well-being of Victoria and District, which has been entirely overlooked; (2) Vancouver Island and its varied interests; (3) British Columbia in general; (4) The Dominion and its people. As Mayor of the city, I feel it will enable me to bring before the Dominion Government these varied interests with greater force and effect.

Yours, &c.,

JAMES FELL.

Victoria, Jan. 15. jan19

To the Electors of Vancouver District.

Gentlemen:—Having been requested by a large number of Electors to allow my name to be placed in nomination as Liberal Conservative Candidate for the House of Commons for your large and important District, I respectfully announce myself as a Candidate for the favor of your support at the coming election.

I will be pleased to hold public meetings wherever possible as soon as dates can be arranged.

Yours Faithfully,

J. P. PLANTA.

Nanaimo, V. I., Jan. 26th, '87. jan28

WOMAN AND HOME.

WHY GIRLS PREFER FACTORY WORK TO KITCHEN LABOR.

A Test of Feminine Refinement—Table Proprieties—Children's Clothing—Cure for Gossip—Uses of Borax—A Handsome Woman—Hints and Helps.

A contributor to The Atlantic Monthly, writing with a feminine hand, deplores the fact that house servants are today receiving as high wages as they received during the war times, when calicoes and medias, boots and bonnets, cost so much more than they do now, and concludes that the reason for this is that the hiring of such servants is entirely in the hands of women. The purpose of the contribution is to show that women have no business qualifications. Men, it says, have reduced the wages of their employes, and women might do the same.

This is what we beg to doubt. The employment given to girls by men—factory work and work in stores—has fascinations which housework never can possess. The girl in the factory works a certain number of hours and then is free to do as she pleases; the girl who works in the kitchen is at no time mistress of her own actions. If she goes out in the evening she is reminded by her employer, who takes a sort of maternal interest in her. If she entertains more company than the mistress approves there is a clash. The girl in the factory sees before her the possibility of an improved condition and an increase of wages; she may even become forewoman in time. The girl in the kitchen knows there is no betterment for her however long and faithfully she may work. The factory girl boards and entertains her friends in the parlor; the kitchen girl exists and entertains, under restriction, in the basement.

What is true of the factory girl is true, to a greater extent, of the store girl, and, moreover, her daily associations and her contact with shoppers of the opposite sex give her many advantages in a matrimonial way, which is a considerable matter. Now add to this the fact that most girls would rather work for men, who do not assume to put parental restraints on them, than for women, who do; and add to this the fact that the shop girl, by general consent, holds her head a little higher than the kitchen girl, and add to this the fact that the shop the girl has the companionship of other girls, while in the kitchen she works alone all day—these seem sufficient reasons for the assertion that it is the opening of new and more attractive fields of work for girls, and not the lack of business qualifications in women, that has maintained the wages of house servants, for if those wages were reduced there would be all the more reason for girls to seek work elsewhere than in the kitchen.—Chicago News.

The Proprieties at the Table.

Women, from some affected notion of refinement, don't eat—they feed. In their teens, when they ought to eat naturally and hungrily, they pick at table and re-enforce by nibbling in a furtive way between times. Very few would own to eating half a pound of fillet at dinner, but fewer still would have much of a pound of Weber's candies if it came in their way. When they are married and the first heir comes they drop that foolishness. Nature being too strong for them, and eat they must. But it is in violation of their code of refinement still, and so they eat like glutton and lose their figures, have pink cabbage complexions and eyes like pickled olives. They look gross, and are secretly spiteful and jealous, largely from indigestion. Byron must have seen young married society women dine when he made his profession that he could not bear to see a woman eat, and it is not to be wondered at. Their way of chewing has something swinish in it. You needn't laugh—just watch the next thick corsaged matron you see at lunch and observe the chopping movement of the jaws.

If I had a daughter I would set a swing glass on the table before her every meal till she learned to eat properly—to grind her food quietly like a human being, not chop it, as stout maiden ladies and fat young women alt ays do. It is certain to give a vulgar set to the lips in time. I or sped being bidden to Windsor—they tell me it is awfully slow dining there, but the way her majesty absorbs nutrition is remarkable. She doesn't encourage conversation, not wishing to be diverted from the business in hand, and goes at it with a serious devotion that shows the government of three kingdoms calls for support. She never allows any one of her family to speak of symptoms of ill health, as I opposed the princesses' studying physiology, as she considered the talk of stomachs and digestions as maladyike and improper.—New York Mail and Express.

Various Uses of Borax.

A cup of powdered borax on your washstand will do wonders in the way of softening the skin. If you have been working in the garden or doing anything about the house which has tended to make your hands rough, when you wash them dip your fingers in the borax and rub your hands well with it. The safest and best thing also for washing the hair is a moderately strong solution of borax in water. Pure water should be used immediately after washing with the borax and water.

Our lady readers who have not used borax have been losing a great help and comfort. If we tested none will be without it on the toilet table. It removes stains and dirt from the hands better than soap, and at the same time softens and smooths the skin. It is excellent for washing laces, and will without injury cleanse brushes and combs in a few moments. It extracts dirt from articles of delicate texture without rubbing, it being only necessary to put them to soak in a solution of borax over night, and to rinse them in the morning. Two tablespoonfuls of pulverized borax dissolved in a quart of water, to which add enough water to cover a pair of blankets, will cleanse them beautifully. It also saves great labor in washing paint.—Hall's Journal of Health.

Pleasures of Social Intercourse.

Perhaps in a room full of people, all sociable in their way, you will not meet more than one or two of your own stamp, who will win responses and attention from you that will astonish even yourself, they come so easily and quickly. In these encounters each heart grows lighter. They are among the highest pleasures of social intercourse. People who are "jolly" are called sociable, but the most sociable people in the world, in the true sense of the word, are frequently those who are not "jolly." Sometimes, indeed, they are reserved, but the hours spent in their society need not be counted among the vanishing pleasures, for the recollection of them is agreeable to you forever. Therefore those who wish to be popular and to win reputation for sociability must cultivate not only graces of body but of mind and learn to never talk to the purpose of what it is not the purpose to talk of."—Detroit Free Press.

Marriage in Ancient Athens.

The choice of an ancient Athenian citizen was limited to Athenian women. Only when they married could his children possess the rights of citizens. An Athenian woman was likewise not allowed to marry a foreigner. The penalties for acting a course beyond the national boundaries were severe.—Boston Budget.

A Modern Floral Wonder.

A newly discovered Mexican flower is quite a wonder, if report are true. It is said to be white in the morning, red at noon and black at night, and is further credited with emitting perfume only at the middle of the day. It comes as a tree of the kidneys of Tecumseh.—Advance Register.

A [illegible] is filling a large order for the [illegible] paper market.

WHAT SHALL WE DO?

What shall we do with this great tree of ours,
Now that we know our pathways must divide—
This form, firm that lifts a dome towards
This wave that sweeps on like an angry tide?

Here, now, forevermore our lives must part.
My path leads there, and yours the other way.
What shall we do with our fond love, that heretofore
It grows a heavier burden day by day.

Hide it? In all earth's caverns cold and vast
There are not depths enough to hide it, dear,
Not even the mighty sheet-cone of the past
Could cover it from our own eyes, I fear.

Drown it? Why, were the contents of each ocean
Merged into one great sea, too shallow then
Would be its waters to slake this emotion—
So deep, it could not rear to life again.

Burn it? In all the furnace fires below
It would not in a thousand years expire;
Nay, it would thrive—expand—exult—and grow;
For from its very birth it fed on fire.

Starve it? Yes, yes, that is the only way—
Give it no food of glance, or word, or sigh;
No memories, even, of any bygone day,
No crumbs of vain regrets—just let it die.

Starvation is a painful death; long hours
Of gnawing hunger like the pangs of hell.
And if we, too, die with this love of ours—
If our hearts break—why, it is just as well.

THE BONES OF THE DEAD.

Disturbing the Mortal Remnants Deposited in Private Burying Grounds.

How shocked some of the grand morals of old New York would be if they could come back to the city and see around noble in one how their bones are treated. For instance, gross and plebeian men, in jumpers and clay pipes, have just, with coarse and unfeeling picks and shovels, poached upon the private preserves of the mortal remnants of the mighty Lispenards, of the ancient regime. At least this is the explanation that the police have fixed upon as the proper one for forking up, in a cellar excavation on Lispenard street, of a large assortment of osseous remnants of humanity. Eight skeletons have so far been dug out, all lying at one level, and all with their heads plumly to the west, that all with the resurrected eyes might by no inclinance fail to see the Son of Man coming in glory from the east. The site was a part of the Lispenard farm, and it is supposed that the bones were laid away in a private burying ground there so long ago everybody's descendants had forgotten all about it.

Good advice to anybody about to die is "Don't be buried in a private burying ground." It is exclusive for a time but after a while it is apt to get common. Within the city limits raked-up Lispenards, but other former families that had themselves laid away in private plots in New York and the suburbs. For one case, there is right on the line of a great railroad, a few miles out of the city—so much on the line that the road seems to draw one side a little to avoid running over it—what an years ago was apparently a private graveyard fallen into a state of noisomes desuetude. Then passengers gazed curiously out of the windows as the train went by, and wondered whose bones were trying to rest in such a rattle-ty-bang location.

Antiquarians know that the bones were those of the de-something-or-others, an old French family that had once been the representative of all that was high toned and wealthy in the neighborhood. That was ten years ago. Now the gravestones have fallen over, a patch of brush and weeds conceals the spot where they used to stand, the passengers never notice the place any more, and the antiquarians are forgetting that there ever was such a family. In another ten years the brush, weeds and gravestones will be cleared away, the place built over by the railroad's side tracks and the antiquarians will be dead.—New York Cor. Chicago Herald.

A Cure for Gossip.

What is cure for gossip? Culture. There is a great deal of gossip that has no malignity in it. Good natured people talk about their neighbors because, and only because, they have nothing else to talk about. As I write, there come to me pictures of different young ladies. I have seen them at home; have met them at the library; coming to and from the bookstore with a fresh volume in their hands. They are full of what they have seen and read. They are brimming with questions. One topic of conversation is dropped only to give place to another in which they are interested. They are interested in art; love to talk about a water color sketch, or a new piece of music just learned.

After a delightful hour with such women one feels stimulated and refreshed, and during the whole evening or hour, as it may be, not a neighbor's garment was soiled by so much as a touch. They had something to talk about. They knew something and were anxious to know more. They had no temptation to gossip, because the doings of their neighbors formed a subject very much less interesting than those which grew out of their knowledge and their culture. There are neighborhoods in which it rages like an epidemic. Churches are split in pieces by it; neighbors are made enemies by it for life. The cure is not so difficult. We have agricultural papers, religious, scientific, political papers, devoted to every interest, great and small. Surely if reading is a cure certainly a help! there is food for all tastes in this direction. With the mind and brain bankrupt for the want of something to busy one's self with—about these spring up the temptations to gossip; and there is such a thing as it becoming chronic—practically incurable. Let the young, those just starting in life, be aware of it.—Mrs. A. E. Henton in Courier-Journal.

Making Children's Clothing.

Baby's wardrobe is soon outgrown, and long clothes must give place to small and dainty frocks and petticoats, which look so exactly like every other child's clothing that it is absolutely necessary to mark in some way all of Eugene's belongings, if there are any other small folks in the same house. It is comparatively easy to write "Eugene" on each little garment, and for a while all of his clothing is marked properly for its owner. When Baby Howard falls heir to his brother's outfit, however, and does one after another of the little dresses marked "Eugene," Mistress Mamma wishes she might write "Howard" where she has always been pleased to see the name of her first born. As the family increases there is more and more need of precision in marking, but not until the children grow old enough to object to wearing clothing not their own does one need to study ways of designating property. I have found an excellent way of conquering the difficulty, and at the same time my method is a very easy one.

I mark the family name, "Crosby," on everything. The clothing I make for the oldest Crosby child I mark with a single star on the left side of the proper name. When his clothing is handed down to Elizabeth I mark another star to the left of the first one, and so on until baby Frank picks out the waists with five stars on and feels that they really belong to him, because he is little "Five-star" Crosby, while in point of fact they were made for little "Two-star" Crosby years ago. Marking in this way always locks out the rightful owners can claim each one his or her property.—Rose Crosby in Babyhood.

A Pretty Dinner Table.

Some persons have a great liking for the large, round dining table on account of its social character, but it is not so easily decorated as tables of other shapes. Quite a novel effect, however, was produced not long ago on one of these tables. The candles, shades and tint of the room were made as pink as possible. At each lady's place a basket of fern grass, gracefully formed to fall from the sides, was filled with pink rose buds and a sprinkling of maiden hair ferns. These baskets were attached to the lower ring of a pink [illegible] such as has been shown the rounds, by means of pink and white ribbons in the ten wide, which were then tied to the handles of the baskets and looped to the ring of the shades.—Detroit Free Press.

Lady Macdonald's Trip.

In Murray's Magazine for February there appears an article from Lady Macdonald entitled "By Car and Cowcatcher." It is a description of her ladyship's journey over the Canadian Pacific Railway. She speaks in very glowing terms of the exquisite beauty of the scenery, the comfort of the carriages and the importance of the line. She also enters briefly into the political history of the undertaking, showing how politicians quarrelled over it, how speculators shook their heads, how engineers doubted the feasibility of the scheme and how the railway authorities opposed the enterprise. It broke one government, embarrassed another, set everybody by the ears and bade fair to become a chronic quarrel between the rival parties when happily the difficulty was faced and the line was brought to a successful finish. The journey of the authoress reads like a novel. It is written with admirable taste and in gossipy style that is exceedingly interesting. Lady Macdonald refers to her husband as a chief who is always engaged in adding to his store of knowledge about the country and its necessities and the requirements of the people. The meeting with the Blackfeet is like a page from a romance. The welcome that Sir John Macdonald received was most gratifying, showing the loyalty of the Dominion's dusky and distant subjects. The authoress gives many interesting incidents of her journey, especially of that part where she proceeded from Laggan for six hundred miles on the cowcatcher of the engine. At this point the story ends for the present, but sufficient has been published to awaken interest here in the great and successful enterprise.

Death of a Waterloo Hero.

Mr. H. Sloret of Mount Forest, Ont., a gentleman well known to many in this city and province died in that town late in Dec. Deceased came to Canada in 1850. He was one of the heroes of the battle of Waterloo, although never having been a soldier. Being at Brussels during that memorable campaign against Napoleon, he volunteered at the early age of 14 to serve his king and country, and being an excellent rider, was commissioned to carry dispatches from the army to Brussels, and on the 15th of June, 1815, he performed the extraordinary feat of riding between the army of Wellington and Brussels not less than six times, covering a distance of over 100 miles.

The Concordia.

This excellent vaudeville company present an entire change of programme this week. Kitty Good (no end Kitty Clapham is a great favorite) Kid and Mallinee are fancy dancers in new characters; Carrie Lipson is a classic vocal selection. Admission 25 cts. Full house at the matinee.

LEGISLATIVE NOTES.

During the discussion of the Attorney General's bill, providing for the appointment of a commission to revise the practice and procedure of the Supreme Court, the member for Cassiar gave an instance of the "law's delays" that is far from creditable, and as he justly observed should not be permitted in any British community. A case in which he is interested remains unsettled since a year ago last July simply because judgment had not been rendered on a point raised, and in face of the fact that the money involved had been paid into court. It was suggested that an application of the California law, which withholds the judicial salary when cases remain unsettled after a specified time, would prove an incentive to greater promptitude in such cases.

Responsible government is a "delusion and a snare" in British Columbia under the SMITHE regime. The proposed legislation on the timber lands is to be relegated to a committee, the government not feeling itself able to deal with the question. The commission to revise the procedure of the Supreme Court will relieve the Attorney General of a duty that properly attaches to his office. There is, it must be admitted, some excuse at the present time for the government shuffling out of its responsibility, as Mr. SMITHE is sick and the Provincial Secretary is little or no use to the one-man power that now drives the machine. The Attorney-General as Mr. BEAVEN pointed out, cannot do everything.

Mr. DUNSMUIR protested. He did not want to be made a fool of but the member for Yale, without a semblance of respect, remarked that mother nature had made a transformation of that kind impossible.

What a ridiculous exhibition the junior member for this city (Mr. T. Davie) made of himself. Taking the cue from Mr. HIGGINS, he wanted to have a bon-fire made of the "Rules and Orders," as Mr. BEAVEN was continually tripping him up by their aid. He felt rather ruffled when told that only such matters as were delegated by the House to a committee could be considered by that committee. If it has taken that gentleman five sessions to learn just that much, how long will it be before he acquires a reasonable knowledge of the procedure generally?

As to the junior member for Esquimalt, we despair of him ever being able to understand the difference between asking a question in the House or expressing an opinion. Hence that member's anxiety to have the "Rules and Orders" relegated to the flames.

Barking an Enquiry.

By every mode of sophistical misstatement the Colonist tries to make it appear that Mr. Beaven objected to have Mr. Theo. Davie alter his resolution asking an enquiry into the reported interference with ballot papers in this city during last election. Mr. Beaven simply pointed out that it was incompetent for the mover to amend his own resolution. As an earnest of Mr. Beaven's desire to have the matter examined into, that honorable gentleman seconded Mr. Bole's amendment, proposing to do what Mr. Davie wished to have done. But Mr. Bole's amendment went too far for the government, as it asked to have referred to the same committee, certain untruthful statements made by the Hon. John Robson, while canvassing for support prior to last election. This was too bitter a pill for the government. The mandate went forth and Bole's amendment was voted down. The statement was made by the government party that Mr. Robson was going to be deposed as soon as the House would be called, but how do their actions accord with their professions? Simply they are ever ready and on hand to vote down any action that might throw opprobrium upon the well known irregularities of any member of the government.

Mr. A. W. Ross, M. P.

The many friends of Mr. A. W. Ross in this city and province will be pleased to learn that he was elected yesterday by acclamation for Lisgar, Manitoba. This was the result of an arrangement that was effected between his friends and those of Mr. McArthur. From the first the election of Mr. Ross was assured, because he was well known in the district. In bygone days he had generously helped many who were in distress and since his residence in Manitoba he never lost an opportunity in furthering the interests of his constituents. Mr. Ross is still a Liberal; has so declared himself repeatedly, but could not endorse the action of the opposition in the last parliament in many of its moves. It will be found that Mr. Ross will extend to Mr. Blake as cordial a support as he did to Sir John. He is claimed by the Conservatives but we opine to the belief that his views will be found to be more in accord with those of the Liberals generally than with the Conservatives. This will explain his acclamation.

Bradstreet's, the weekly financial and commercial newspaper published by The Bradstreet Company, is now in its fifteenth volume, and is surpassed by none of the financial and commercial periodicals of this country or in Europe. In the fourteen volumes already issued can be found a greater diversity of original and carefully prepared matter—facts and figures—relating to business topics than in any other periodical during the same period. Nor is it surprising that it has reached and maintains this position, for it is owned and published by a large corporation—with its capital and assets of over $1,400,000, its nearly 100 branch offices, and its small army of over 1,000 salaried employees and 65,000 regular correspondents. This organization makes extensive investigations into industrial and other matters, gathers full reports of the condition and prospects of the leading crops, and reports regularly each week the condition of trade throughout the country, thus practically making Bradstreet's an authority as to the condition and prospects of the commercial world. It needs but a glance at the newspaper to satisfy any one that its publishers have been ambitious rather than avaricious. Files of Bradstreet's have become an acceptable and almost indispensable journal for progressive business men.

The Cosgrave Brewing and Malting Company, have assigned with $100,000 liabilities and assets placed at $85,000. What has become of the N. P.? There were to be no more failures under its blissful rays.

A Good Beginning.

The result of the nominations yesterday can be regarded in no other light than as extremely satisfactory and encouraging for the cause of Liberalism. The announcement is made that but in one constituency in Ontario was there no contest. This is certainly an unprecedented occurrence, and indicates how intense the conflict is in that province. There are many other constituencies equally as pronounced as is South Ontario in its Liberal convictions, where the contest is a mere matter of form. That the Liberals will secure a majority in that province is now almost a certainty beyond peradventure. One constituency in this province elected an independent supporter, Mr. J. A. Mara. In Lisgar, Manitoba, Mr. Ross, an independent Liberal, was also elected. An arrangement in this case was arrived at in consequence of pledges made by Mr. Ross, who has been a Liberal all his life, but hostile to the Liberal opposition for its attitude on the Canada Pacific Railway question. He will be found to give Mr. Blake as generous a support as he did to Sir John.

In Quebec, Montreal East elected Mr. Coursol, Nationalist, one of the bolters. Newlet also elected another bolter, Mr. Dupont, as did also Rouville, in the person of Mr. Gigault. There are three counties gained so far for the Liberals, equal to six on a division. In Bagot Mr. Dupont, an independent Nationalist, was elected. Mr. Scriver again walked the course in Huntingdon.

If these indications are worth anything the overthrow of the Macdonald government is no longer now a matter of doubt. The next few days will witness heavy, hard work for both parties. But the Liberal wave having set in, its friends claim that nothing can now stem it—an opinion to which THE TIMES likewise inclines.

Police News.

The police were busy to-day in keeping the morals of the city up to the usual excellent standard.

Jack, a Sooguich Indian, was arrested by provincial constable Lewis for being drunk and disorderly.

The crazy Chinaman is securely locked in a cell; when the cell door is opened he commences his violent Chinese talk, otherwise he seems harmless.

The trio of Chinese, arrested last night in a disreputable house on Pagard street, seem content with their lodgings. One is only a little girl, yet, by Chinese cunning regarding age, is said by the old hag of the trio to be 16 years old.

Harry, a Fort Rupert Indian, was to-day arrested by Officer Hawton for cruelly beating an Indian woman named Mary. The woman was badly cut on the head with a club wielded by the drunken Indian. To gaol, after he was locked up, he tried to strangle himself with his suspenders, but was found by Officer Smith, badly exhausted, who handcuffed him in such a manner that a second attempt cannot be made.

Eighty Ton Guns.

It transpired, as we pointed out at the time the statement was made some months ago, that there is no truth in the report that the British government proposed to send about a dozen 80-ton guns to Victoria and Esquimalt for the defence of these ports. Engines of war of that magnitude are not so plentiful in the service that so many of them would be concentrated at even such an important point as the Western terminus of the C. P. R. and the Pacific coaling station for the navy. An application was made to the Canadian Pacific to know if it could transport one or more guns of that size, and that was the origin of the rumor. Since then nothing has been heard of the 80-ton guns. Two of such monsters would be sufficient for the defence of this station, and as our importance to the empire is fully appreciated by the war office, it is not improbable that a battery of large guns will be placed here at an early date.

Free Trade.

The reduction of internal revenue and the taking off of revenue stamps from Proprietary Medicines, no doubt has largely benefited the consumers, as well as relieving the burden of home manufacturers. Especially is this the case with Green's August Flower and Boschee's German Syrup, as the reduction of thirty-six cents per dozen, has been added to increase the size of the bottles containing these remedies, thereby giving one fifth more medicine in the 75 cent size. The August Flower for Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint, and the German Syrup for Cough and Lung troubles, have perhaps, the largest sale of any medicines in the world. The advantage of increased size of the bottles will be greatly appreciated by the sick and afflicted, in every town and village in civilized countries. Sample bottles for 10 cents remain the same size.

Crazy Chinaman.

Officers Hawton and Welch had a live-ly time last night in arresting a crazy Chinaman, named Chan Fook Kin, who had fortified himself in his house in Chinatown and defied any person to come near him. When the officers arrived at the place, about 11 o'clock, Chan was standing at a window almost naked, ringing a small bell to drive the evil spirits away. The officers were compelled to force three doors, the Chinaman retreating to an inner fortification as the outposts were carried. The room was strewn with personal effects, and the contents of a coal oil can were spilled upon the floor. When hand-cuffed the madman kicked, scratched and bit the officers, but was secured finally by twisting his cue around his bracelets. He will be kept in gaol until his mania disappears, or will be sent to the asylum should his aberration prove to be permanent.

The Sealing Season.

A gentleman from Port Townsend, a seafaring man and an old time sealer, opines to the belief that the present sealing season is backward on account of general heavy winds and storms on the Pacific. An Indian killed a fur seal in Neah Bay, an unknown occurrence before. The heavy winds it is surmised drove the sole one ashore. As sealing schooners do not generally go into port when on a cruise to report their catch the opinion may be taken for what it is worth—guess work.

Political Meeting To-Night.

In the Victoria Theatre this (Wednesday) evening, at 8 o'clock, Messrs. Baker and Shakespeare will give an account of their stewardship to the electors of the Victoria district. These gentlemen have invited the other candidates to be present, and there now being no less than six candidates in the field, the meeting promises to be an interesting one. Doubtless there will be a large attendance of electors and others present.

The Liberals of North Leeds have nominated Mr. Angus Buchanan as their candidate for the Commons representation.

The nomination for Algoma took place at Sault Ste. Marie on the 10th. The names of D. P. Burke, Port Arthur, and Simon J. Dawson, were submitted to returning officer Wilkie. At the meeting after the nomination, over 100 to one favored Burke, whose election is sure.

During the year 1886, no less than 374,000 tons of coal were shipped from Nanaimo, Nova Scotia.

HOUSE OF ASSEMBLY.

First Session of the Fifth Legislative Assembly.

ELEVENTH DAY CONTINUED.

TUESDAY, Feb. 15.

The motion for the appointment of a select committee to enquire into the working of the Small Debts Act was seconded by Mr. Bole, who said that in New Westminster only one case had been instituted under the Act. The act was intended as an attempt to reduce the cost and difficulties existing for want of a competent county court. He thought that perhaps it was a mistake to catch up a system of judicature to take the place of county courts; strong recommendations to the Dominion Government should be made in regard to the necessity of establishing such county courts.

Mr. Dunsmuir would oppose any attempt to do away with the act unless a county court was established at Nanaimo, where every person was in favor of the present law.

Mr. Orr said the Nanaimo stipendiary magistrate had remitted a portion of the costs and served the summonses himself, which had the effect of popularizing the act in that district. He thought the act should be repealed and a proper system of county courts established.

Mr. Higgins was favorable to a continuation of the act; the government should put it in force in Victoria.

The motion was carried and the following committee named: Attorney-General, Bole, Turner, Rymlin and T. Davie.

KOOTENAY AND ATHABASKA RAILWAY.

Mr. T. Davie asked leave to introduce a bill to incorporate the Kootenay and Athabaska Railway Co., which was granted and bill was read a first time and referred to standing Committee on Railways.

SUMAS DYKING ACT.

Mr. Speaker gave his ruling on the point reserved in respect to the right of the government to amend a private bill. His opinion was that the government had such right.

Hon. Mr. Robson then introduced his bill to amend in part the Sumas Dyking Act. Read a first time.

The Attorney General moved the second reading of his bill providing for the appointment of a commission to prepare rules and regulations to guide the practice and procedure of the Supreme Court. He pointed out the anomalous condition of the courts at the present time and emphasized, in a forcible speech, the necessity for a revision.

The motion was seconded by Mr. Bole in an excellent speech.

Mr. Grant expressed the hope that care would be taken that the old exorbitant scale of charges would not be again adopted. The cost of litigation had been such as to prohibit all but rich men from going into court, and he would most strenuously oppose any proposal to go back to the old order of things.

Messrs. Higgins, Orr and McLeese expressed similar views, when the House went into committee on the bill, Mr. Orr in the chair. After considering several clauses, the committee rose and reported progress and asked leave to sit again.

PRIVILEGE.

Mr. Beaven complained that three government members, who had been appointed on the public accounts committee, had failed to attend the meeting, and the business was consequently not proceeded with.

Messrs. T. Davie, Dunsmuir and Turner excused their absence and promised to be more punctual in future.

MONEY CLAUSES.

Mr. Baker asked Mr. Speaker for information as to the power of the private bills committee to pass upon money clauses in private bills.

A lengthy discussion ensued, Messrs. Beaven, Bole, Grant and other members of the opposition maintaining that a committee could not exercise a privilege denied to the House, and that all legislation proposing public expenditure must originate through the government and by a message from the Lieutenant-Governor.

Mr. Thos. Davie took a contrary view.

Mr. Speaker reserved the point.

House adjourned at 5:45.

POLICE COURT.

(Before Mr. E. Johnson, S. M.)

Ah Yee and Ah Toy, charged with being habitual frequenters of Chinese houses of ill-fame; remanded till to-morrow, bail being fixed at $100 each.

Ah Ling, charged with being the keeper of a house of ill-fame; remanded till to-morrow, bail being fixed at $100.

San Francisco Fiends.

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 15.—The perpetrators of the recent dynamite outrages on Geary and Sutter street railways have been captured by the police. Chief of Police Crowley, Capt. Lees and 6 policemen saw a man at 4.30 this morning in the act of placing something on the Sutter Street Railway. The officers closed upon him and noticing them he started to run. He did not obey and stop but ran on and was seen to throw a dynamite cartridge into a garden from where it was recovered by the police. Ten shots were fired at the man but without effect. One of the policemen finally captured him and he proved to be J. E. Stokes, one of the striking carmen formerly employed on the Sutter street road. The police visited Stokes' home and there found more evidences of his guilt. In a sewing machine they found some cuttings from the very pieces of cloth with which the bomb was covered; also, they found thread of the same size and color as that with which the bomb was sewn. They also found copper caps which had doubtless contained caps with which the bomb was provided. Stokes, in prison, stated he had an appointment with a man named Fred Williams to place the cartridge on the track at the time he was captured. The police have also arrested H. C. Dean, in whose house they found a quantity of dynamite.

The Irish Problem.

London dispatches of yesterday state that Chamberlain and Sir Geo. O. Trevylyan had resumed a conference on the Irish question with Baron Herschell, Sir William Vernon Harcourt and Morley. Chamberlain presented a draft of a scheme for the government of Ireland, which is a modification of his former proposals for the establishment of provincial councils. He would now establish an Ulster Parliament at Belfast and another at Dublin, both to be subordinate to the Imperial Parliament. The Irish bodies holding executive authority within their own limits, but the Crown retaining the appointment of Judges and the control of the customs and excise matters. The conference lasted several hours. Morley declared his emphatic opposition to Chamberlain's proposals. It is said to be impossible to obtain the assent of the Parnellites or the bulk of the Gladstonian Liberals to the scheme which has already been rejected by Gladstone.
